Organist

Zuzana Ferjenčíková is a Slovak organist, pianist and composer. She was educated from early childhood in alignment with the Russian piano tradition and pursued organ studies at the conservatory in Banská Bystrica and at the universities in Bratislava and Vienna. She has been influenced especially by the teaching of and collaboration with her Maître Jean Guillou (Paris). Holder of numerous prizes in international competitions, 2004 she was the first woman to be awarded the First Prize at the International Organ Improvisation Competition in Haarlem in the Netherlands.

From September 2021 she is appointed professor for organ at Codarts University in Rotterdam. She gives master-classes for improvisation and takes part in international organ competition juries and follows an intense concert and recording career.

As a performer, her focus lie in the Romantic period and the music of 20th century, in particular the oeuvre by Franz Liszt and Jean Guillou. As a composer, she writes concert pieces for organ, piano and various instrumental formations. She is author of numerous transcriptions of piano and orchestral works for organ.
